Harrisburg, Penn., Aug. 24.-Colonel Matthew Stanley Quay was the dominant factor in the Republican State Convention here to-day. There can be no question of that, for in the one instance where there was a measuring of strength, that on the yote adopting the platform that contained a plank indorsing Governor Stone's action in appointing Quay to the United States Senate, in regard to which Senator Flinn, the anti-Quay leader, denounced Quay, the latter's friends won by a vote of 192 to 49. While the forty-nine were opposed to Quay they were friendly to the platform, if his name had been kept out of it.

It was an unexciting convention, and the shortest on record for the Republican party in this State, occupying only four hours, with no recess. Colonel Quay himself was a delegate, but just after the formation of the committees he substituted a fellow Beaver County man and disappeared for the day. A convention with no fight in it was not common amusement for The platform warmly indorsed President McKinley for a second term, and pledged him the support of the State next year, besides containing a reiteration of the indorsement of Republican principles generally as they are now

The ticket nominated is a fairly good one. J. Hay Brown, of Lancaster, for Judge of the Supreme Court, is one of the ablest lawyers in the State, and Josiah Adams, the nominee for Superior Court Judge, is one of the leaders at the Philadelphia bar; Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, of the 10th Pennsylvania Regiment, got his nomination because Quay makes it a point alwas to put a soldier on the ticket. Barnett has been a good bit of an independent until reing the local independent movement in Phila-

General Frank Reeder, of Easton, as State chairman. General Reeder was the Secretary of the Commonwealth who was asked to resign by Governor Hastings because he signed an indemnity bond for the State Treasurer to protect him for paying legislative employes who were not authorized by law.

PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

Harrisburg, Penn., Aug. 34.-The following ticket was nominated to-day by the Republican State Convention:

For Supreme Court Judge-J. HAY BROWN, of Lan-For Superior Court Judge-JOSIAH R. ADAMS, of Phila-delphia, State Treasurer-Lieutenant Colonel BARNETT, of the 10th Pennsylvania Regi-

The only discordant note in the convention was winded by Senator William Flinn, of Pittsburg, chairman of the anti-Quay organization in the last Legislature. Mr. Flinn opposed the plank in the platform indorsing the appointment of United States Senator Quay by Governor Stone. A roll call was taken on the adoption of the platform as a whole, and it was adopted by a large majority. The anti-Quay delegates generally voted against the adoption of the platform and the nomination of Adams, Superior Court Judge Dimner Beeber, of Philadelphia, was named in opposition to Mr. tection of Adams, and received the votes of many of the anti-Quay delegates. Judge Beeber was appointed by Governor Hastings, and his term expires the st Monday of next January. He was not nominated because he is not in good favor with the friends of Senator Quay. The nomination of Colonel Barnett was made by acciamation.

The nomination of a Supreme Court Judge is equivalent to an election, by reason of the two vacancies in the court and no elector being entitled to vote for more than one person. Aside from the nomination of the ticket and the adoption of the platform, new rules were reported and adopted the government of the State organization

The convention was called to order by Chairman Elkin, the roll call showing the presence of 248 delegates. Senator Penrose was unanimously elected temperary chairman. He was introduced by Mr. Elkin as "the junior United States Senator from Pensylvania." This recognition of Mr. Quay as the "senior" Senator was applauded.

WAR RESPONSIBILITIES MET.

WAR RESPONSIBILITIES MET.

The war with Spain imposed grave and unexpected responsibilities upon the Republican party. That the party fully met the expectations of a patronic people and possesses to-day their unbounded confidence, is recognized by all, and there is no apprehension in the breast of any true Republican that the party will not meet and solve publican that the party will not meet and solve successfully the new and momentous problems resulting from the war. In the organization of our military forces for the late Spanish war the resources and activities of this country were exhibited in a remarkable degree. Although the country was entirely unprepared for war, an army of over a quarter of a million men was recruited, equipped and officency of that army and its brilliant successes are acknowledged by all. No less difficult and arduous was the task imposed upon the President effer the declaration of peace to organize another army and to arrange for its transportation across the Pacific Ocean to the distant Philippines. In this unexampled undertaking the President has excised a personal supervision and a guiding hand, he and his advisers at Washington have been possessed with the determination that the honor of the American flag should be upheld, that the insurrection should be established beyond question by the most prompt and efficient measures.

The new issues confronting the country as the result of the war will be courageously met, and will be solved by the Republican party in a spirit of justice and patriotism.

PECLARATIONS OF THE PLATFORM.

Supervision of the innumerable details involving the organization of our troops, and later on after peace was declared. he has given his close personal attention to the organization of the transport service, the recruiting of regiments, the furnishing of supplies and men to the Philippine Islands, so that the insurrection there might be suppressed and peace and order established. On every question and in every emergency he has shown himself generous, magnanimous, courageous and patriotic. We expect to see him unanimously renominated as the approaching Presidential election. We look confidently forward to his triumphant election, and we feel sure that with a renewed lease of Republican supremacy and control in the Nation our wonderful prosperity will continue with rapid strides, and our country will advance fearlessly upon the glorious destiny which seems to be marked out for us.

DECLARATIONS OF THE PLATFORM.

The temporary organization of the convention was tions Committee read the platform, as follows, The Republicans of Pennsylvania, in convention

William McKinley, to be President of the United States. The Republican party has been in control of the National Government for little more than two years, and during that time every promise made by it has been fulfilled. Business is active and remunerative, labor is employed at good and increasing wages, capital has ample field for investment, and an era of unexampled prosperity has been inaugurated. Much of the success of the Republican policy, adopted in 1898, is due to the good judgment, wise counsel, administrative ability, far reaching diplomacy and broad minded statesmanship of our particule President. We firmly support and fully indorse his Administration, and place on record the wish of the Republicans of Pennsylvania that he be nominated to lead our hosts to victory in the campaign of 1890, and to this end we recommend the election of delegates who will give his candidacy earnest and vigorous support in the next National Convention.

We reaffirm the principles of our party declared in the National Convention by the St. Louis Convention. The Republican party of Pennsylvania stands unequivocally and unreservedly for sound money, and favors a currency with which to pay the wages of labor and the earnings of capital, the soldier and pensioner, as good as gold the world over. To further these ends, we believe in maintaining the existing gold standard, and are unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 15 to 1.

The 10th Pennsylvania, under the leadership of the courageous and lamented Hawkins, occupies the honorable position of being the only regiment east of the Mississippi River chosen for campaign service in the distant Philippines, and it is now a matter of National history that they met the hishest expectations of those who selected them for this patriotic service. To give continued employment to the industry, ingenuity and skill of the American mechanic and laborer we must find new markets abroad for our surplus products. The commercial control of additional territory will afford new markets, which will necessarily increase our commerce and develop our manufacturing interests. We favor the building up of our merchant marine upon the lines laid out by the bills reported favorably to the Senate and House, second session, LVth Congress, so that we may have a reserve defence in case of war, and that 200,000,000 of freightage now paid to foreign ships may remain to the American shipbuilder, the American shipbuilder, the American shipowner, the American seaman and the American mechanic. ### WILSON COMMENTS ON QUIGG. BROOKLYN'S POSTMASTER HAS SOMETHING

TO SAY ABOUT FALSE PROPHETS. Postmaster Wilson of Brooklyn does not like Lemuel Ely Quigg. When the former was told yesterday that Mr. Quigg had said that there was no fight in the Republican ranks in Kings County, he said: "What is the use of replying to Quigg? No one pays any attention to Quigg now. He is an here, who dreamed that they were carrying on a successful campaign in 1897, when an adverse vote of 100,000 swept over them. Quigg predicted success in his own Congress district. Why should any sane man notice what Quigg Mr. Wilson, in speaking of his fight against the regular Republican leaders in Brooklyn in the Sep-

regular Republican leaders in Brooklyn in the September primaries, said:

"I am a Republican and will abide by the results. A great deal will depend upon the confidence which the voters have in their leaders. If that confidence is smail, look out for disastrous results. I see that John G. Deubert. Republican leader of the Twenty-eighth Ward, thinks that the rank and file of the party needs looking after rather than the leaders. I do not. With good leaders, the rank and file is all right. Good leaders are like good generals, and will lead their followers to victory. The primaries will settle the question effectively."

REVOLT AGAINST CROKER GROWS.

This declaration was closely followed by the statement that the present revolt meant more than had yet been made known. tion of the XXIXth Assembly District. Regular meetings of the organization are to be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in Tuxedo Hall, where the permanent headquarters will be. There are to be a president, three vice-presidents, a treasurer and a recording secretary. The Executive Committee is to consist of twenty-eight district captains and the officers of the organization. There are to be other committees, such as a press committee, campaign committee, and so on.

The men who are prominently connected with the movement, according to ex-Justice Koch, up to the present time, are John D. Crimmins, Ashbel P. Fitch, ex-Justice Joseph P. Daly, ex-Lieutenant Governor William F. Sheehan, those who were present last evening, and many other prominent men who, silhough they have signified their desire to join the movement, are not yet ready to announce their names. According to ex-Justice Koch, eighty-three men have been enrolled in the ranks since the last meeting was held. To the question whether in the event of a failure of the movement, the grievances complained of would be carried into the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall, ex-Justice Koch said they would, in case any dishonesty at the primaries were attempted.

Abraham Schwab said after the meeting. "Fault may be found with me on the ground that I am revolting because I have not been given office of some kind. This is not been given office of some kind. This is not the case, however. There is no position that Tammany Hall could give me that I want I can do better in my business than I could in any position which is within the power of the organization to give me. There are many persons in this district who have become tired of the men who not only do not work for the party, but do not even vote at elections, get the offices. We have become tired of it."

Daniel T. Haley, general secretary of the National and State Association of Retail Butchers, was present. He said that the wholesalers now insisted upon being paid by the retailers each week and any of the latter who were behind in their and any of the latter who were behind in their payment would be blacklisted and unable to obtain meats. For this reason it was decided to organize the retailers for the purpose of fighting the wholesale men's alleged exorbitant demands. Meanwhile the householders will be forced to suffer by being obliged to settle their bills each week. VAN WYCK BOOM NURSE HERE AGAIN. J. J. Willett, of Alabama, who recently came to

The San Domingo Improvement Company took this city with the intention of helping along the Van Wyck boom and went to Saratoga when he form of guarantee the income from custom houses. This company, whose representatives ought to be well informed of all that is going on in the republic, should be willing that the country should have a patriotic form of government, of General Heureaux, which they seem to uphold. The San Dominso Improvement Company should be well aware of the complication and disorder which exist in the finances of the country—a country ruled without a revenue law, and where the expenditures are three and four times greater than the production of the revenue, as it has been only since the ascendency of Heureaux. The same company should also know that the custom house officers were in league with the Government in order to deduct part of the income.

"The interests of the improvement company will not be assured until there is established in the country a government representing order, made up of honest and eminent men. Only then can the income of the republic be sufficient to pay the interest on the capital stock of the company and a gradual payment on its capital." found that the boom had collapsed, returned to the city last evening, and was at the Hoffman House. city last evening, and was at the Hollman House. He was apparently a much sadder and wiser man than he was when he made his speech at the Fourth of July celebration in Tammany Hall. He declined to talk about the Van Wyck hoom last evening, and said he was going to Buffalo on Monday to attend the National Bar Association meeting, which would have no connection with politics.
